Energy assistance available

The Hancock County office of the Gulf Coast Action Agency reports funds are still available for applicants under its low income energy assistance program.

Lucy Hazeur of Bay St. Louis, local administrator, is urging persons who think they may be eligible for this assistance to make immediate application.

This program, designed to help meet rising energy costs, is being administered by the Governor's Office of Federal State Program and the Department of Human Resources, through the local Community Action Agencies, and other community based organizations.

Applicants must be certified through an application process to obtain program benefits.

Proof of household income from 1980 such as a W-2 statement, check stubs, pay slips from employers regarding wages or copies of income check, such as Social Security checks are required. Eligible groups are low-income households affected by energy cost increase. Benefits may vary depending on income, region of the state, type of heating used, and category of eligibility.

Application centers for Hancock County are the Gulf Coast Community Action Agency, 300 3rd. St. in Bay St. Louis and The Day Care Center on the Old Spanish Trail.

The Community Action Agency is open from Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Hancock County.

For more information, call 467-3198 or the Governor's service line 1-800-222-7622.

Dale speaks on insurance

George Dale, Mississippi commissioner of insurance, spoke recently at the Rotary Club in Bay St. Louis and also addressed an economics class at Bay Senior High School.

During the speeches, Dale discussed services provided by the insurance department relating to the consumer; claims, and auditing insurance companies to guarantee they are financially solvent.

Dale also discussed the problems involved in licensing 28,000 insurance agents currently in Mississippi and supervising some 1,200 insurance companies in the state.

Arson and what the insurance companies are going about it, was the final issue Dale addressed.

Holiday schedules

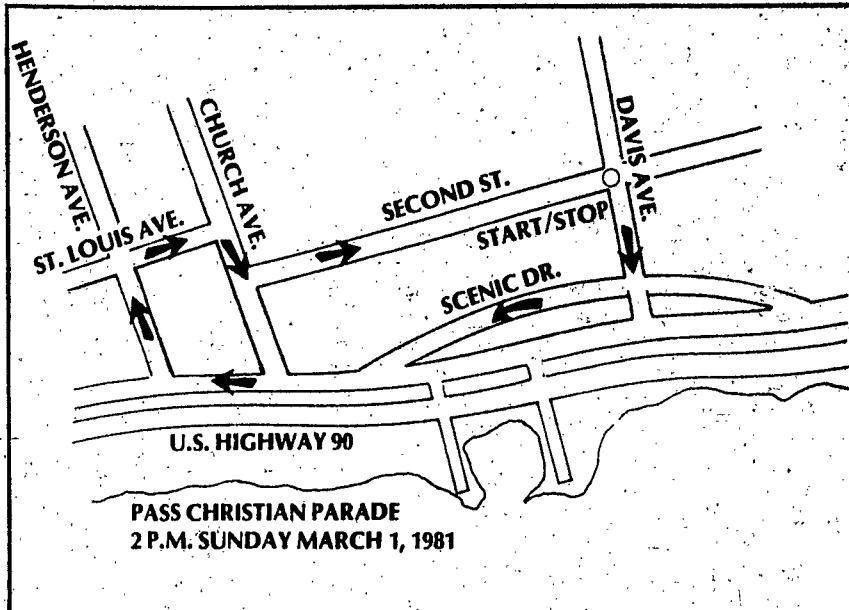

Following is a list of Mardi Gras holiday schedules for governmental agencies, area schools, businesses and Mardi Gras parades.

The Pass Christian Mardi Gras parade rolls at 2 p.m. today in Pass Christian.

The Krewe of Real People will parade Tuesday, Mardi Gras Day, in Bay St. Louis. That parade will start at St. Rose Church, pass Bay St. Louis City Hall and return to the church after traversing a circuitous route through the city.

The Triton Parade begins at 2 a.m. Tuesday followed directly by the Krewe of Hancock. Both parades will start at the Waveland Shopping Center and proceed east on US-90 to the A&P.

SCHEDULES—Page 2A

PASS PARADE ROUTE—The Pass Christian Mardi Gras parade, sponsored by St. Paul's Carnival Association, gets under way at 2 p.m. Sunday. The reviewing stand for Queen Christina and her court along with city officials will be set up in front of city hall on Scenic Drive. Refreshments for senior citizens will be available inside city hall. A noon champagne party for the 1981 queen and prior holders of the queen title will be held in the Chamber of Commerce building at the harbor. Parade marshal is Wayne James. Honorary marshal is Lt. Gov. Brad Dye.

Triton VII, entourage roll at 2 p.m. Tuesday

By EDGAR PEREZ

The Krewe of Triton, a carnival organization composed primarily of Hancock County businessmen, will stage its seventh annual US-90 parade Tuesday with some 70 units.

J. D. (Big John) Rutherford, former Hancock County Chancery clerk and retired tax consultant, is this year's

J.D. Rutherford Jr.

King Triton VII.

The Mardi Gras Day event is expected to get underway from Our Shopping Center at Waveland Avenue and US-90 at 2 p.m.

The parade assembly will begin at 1 p.m. at the center, according to the parade captain whose identity is traditionally kept secret.

Included in King Triton's entourage will be marching and truck bands, floats, equestrian riding groups, Shriners from as far away as Pensacola to the east and New Orleans to the west, and drum and bugle corps.

The king will be toasted at three stands: two provided by the Cities of Waveland and Bay St. Louis, respectively, and a krewe stand at Bouslog Street and US-90.

Triton's 10 floats are designed by noted New Orleans Mardi Gras float designer Ed Scanlan of Waveland.

Triton Parade will be followed by the Krewe of Hancock.

The State Highway Department has issued a permit authorizing the closing of the east-bound lanes of US-90 between Waveland and Dunbar Avenues in Bay St. Louis where the aggregations will disband in the A&P Center parking lot.

Former kings of Triton include E. C. Hungry Exnicious, 1975; Ray Kidd Jr., 1976; Eddie Scanlan, 1977; Fred Peterman, 1978; G. Lynn McGehee, 1979; and Harmon Turan, 1980.

Unemployment rate increases in Hancock

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Hancock County's January unemployment rate of 6.6 percent reflected an increase of one percentage point from December figures based on current Mississippi State Employment Service reports.

The local jobless rate is well below the national rate of 8.2 percent and state figure of 8.6 percent during the same period.

The state agency derived its Hancock figures based on a civilian labor force of 7,020. Of that number 460 are listed unemployed.

An average of 1980 calendar year county employment figures show a labor force of some 7,210 with approximately 430 persons unemployed reflecting a jobless rate of six percent.

Mississippi's 8.6 percent unemployment rate in January reflected an increase of 1.2 percent compared to December's 7.4 percent jobless rate, says Mississippi Employment Security Commission Executive Director O.H. Simmons.

"Last year's January unemployment rate was 6.7 percent," he adds.

The state unemployment rate was higher than the 6.2 percent national rate for January.

Employment Service figures show 86,500 unemployed and 914,300 employed out of a statewide civilian labor force of 1,000,800. Initial unemployment insurance claims totaled 33,685 for January," Simmons says.

Counties having the highest unemployment rates in January were Sharkey, with a rate of 17.2 percent; Jeff Davis, with a rate of 16.9 percent; and Jefferson, with a rate of 15.6 percent," the executive director notes.

"Rankin, Oktibbeha, and Forrest counties had the lowest jobless rates for January. Rankin had a rate of 4.0 percent, Oktibbeha had a rate of 4.6 percent, and Forrest had an unemployment rate of 5.2 percent," Simmons states.

"Some 75 of the state's 82 counties showed an increase in their unemployment rates for the month, while six reported decreases. The jobless rate in one county remained the same," Simmons explains.

The state's unemployment rate was 7.5 percent in December, an increase of five-tenths of a percentage point compared to November's 7.1 percent jobless rate.

Last year's December unemployment rate was 6.2 percent.

"The 7.6 percent unemployment rate for the state was higher than the 6.9 percent national rate in December. Our figures show 77,000 unemployed and 934,700 employed out of a civilian labor force of 1,011,700," Simmons says.

"Initial Unemployment Insurance claims totaled 25,683 in December," he adds.

"The counties having the highest unemployment rates in December were Alcorn, with a rate of 14.6 percent; Tate, with a rate of 14.4 percent; and Sharkey, with a rate of 12.5 percent," Simmons reported.

"Rankin, Issaquena, and Oktibbeha counties had the lowest jobless rates for December. Rankin had a rate of 3.6 percent, Issaquena had a rate of 3.7 percent, and Oktibbeha had an unemployment rate of 4.6 percent."

Port water system improvements eyed

A Bay St. Louis engineer told members of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission recently that Port Bienville Industrial Park's water system should be improved.

Michael Smith of Advanced Developments Inc. reported fire department pumpers could prematurely empty the park's water tank while fighting a fire and pollute the water system.

The engineer also noted the park's water tank lacks chlorination equipment which federal Clean Water Act standards will require by 1984.

"Nothing controls pressure on the tank, it's manually operated by a switch Smith said.

"The tank could run out of water during a fire fighting effort which would form a suction on the water lines and cause bacteria to infiltrate the lines," the engineer explained.

Smith recommended the water improvements be completed before Borg-Warner Chemicals' Port Bienville plant begins operating.

The engineer estimated the water system improvement project would cost approximately $15,000 which he said would include:

—A chlorination unit costing some $6,500;
—Pressure controls ranging from $4,500 to $5,000;

—A pump house estimated at $3,500 to cover a motor and chlorination unit.

Regarding tank controls, Smith recommended the commission purchase "electrode controls."

"You'll have a large fluctuation in the tank water level with pressure type controls," he noted.

"An electrode system has to work off a telephone line running from the well to the water tank," Smith said.

"Since the well is located a fairly good distance from the tower I'm investigating a telemetry system which would operate by a radio-control," he explained.

"This type of control hasn't been used locally, but I feel it would be reliable and cost involved in stringing telephone line would be eliminated," Smith added.

Commissioner Dave McDonald asked Smith what would happen to the system in the event electrical power was lost in a storm.

Smith replied, "You would have to operate the system manually like you are doing now."

Commission Director W. Wilson Webre inquired what the "ongoing cost" of such a system would be.

The engineer estimated monthly operating costs between $150 and $200.

"The system is not in compliance with upcoming drinking water standards.

I'm not trying to tell the commission what to do, but I am offering this recommendation because by 1984 these improvements will be mandatory.

McDonald noted, "Right now we probably have 300 people drinking the water at Port Bienville, we would be in trouble if someone got sick."

Smith added, "If you have a drop in pressure and you get suction on the lines, industries at the park would be without water for 48 hours."

The engineer explained the lines would have to be flushed for two days with "100 times more" than the usual amount of chlorine to purify a bacteria infiltrated system.

McDonald recommended, "We're going to have to discuss a metering system for water customers at the park."

Webre reported, "We're just about breaking even with our present water fees at Port Bienville."

"We're installing a chlorination system at Stennis International Airport and the adjacent airport and Borg-Warner is installing its own water purification system," the director said.

McDonald noted, "Borg-Warner will only have 20 to 25 employees to begin with, but we're looking at about 300

Waveland's mysterious water hazard identified

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A huge metal object located some 600 feet offshore in the Mississippi Sound near the foot of Nicholson Avenue was identified early Thursday morning by a Waveland native.

In the Thursday issue of The Sea Coast Echo, a caption with a photograph of Robert (Bobby) Boudin, Hancock County Civil Defense director, pushing his boat away from the hazard, asked readers to identify the mysterious object.

The Civil Defense director is seeking assistance from the U.S. Coast Guard and U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to remove that obstruction to navigation and several other hazards submerged just below mean low tides in local waters.

Boudin is compiling records of these dangerous obstacles.

He fears boaters will strike these hidden objects which he says could cause damage, injuries and deaths.

An Army National Guard amphibious vehicle was damaged about two years ago when it hit the Waveland obstacle.

Boudin Thursday said Mel Villere, Waveland's building inspector, telephoned him at about 5 a.m. that day to inform him the object was part of a dredge which exploded and sank in late January, 1929.

Accompanying this report is a copy of a front page story in the Feb. 1, 1929 issue of The Sea Coast Echo which describes events on Tuesday, Jan. 28, 1929 when the vessel sank.

In addition, Villere Friday recalled that a large explosion "rocked all of Waveland" in the early morning hours when the dredge sank.

"It blew up and knocked us out of bed early in the morning," the Waveland native said.

Villere said at the time of the incident he was 10 years old, living on Waveland Avenue and driving a truck to earn extra money.

"The seawall in Hancock County was built between 1927 and 1930," Villere recalls.

"A fellow named Weaver had a lot of land in that area and the Works Progress Administration had just put in a concrete culvert to drain that land," the longtime resident said.

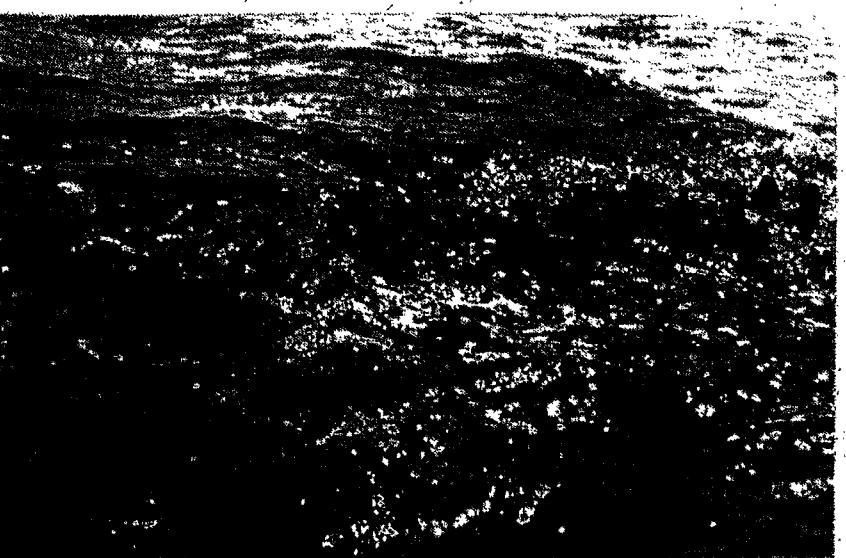

Villere noted the dredge and crew had been working along the coast offshore to pump sand in behind the newly constructed seawall.

The Waveland native speculated the offshore metal object is a section of dredging arm which extended in front of the vessel.

"That particular piece of iron stood well above the water line until about 12 years ago when Hurricane Camille apparently submerged it," Villere reported.

The building inspector said the dredge's hull was constructed of a relatively thin iron and the superstructure was built of wood.

Villere, a retired contractor, added Waveland only had a population of some 150-200 in the 1920's.

Dredge fire report from The Sea Coast Echo, Feb. 1, 1929:

DREDGE IS BURNED NEAR BAY

Exhaust Pipe Said to Have Caused Fire—Engineer Burns Hands

The dredge boat belonging to the Coastal Construction Company which was engaged in filling in low ground on about five acres of land belonging to E. V. Richards at Waveland, burned to the water's edge early Tuesday morning, and later the structure below the water sank. Engineer Bill Johnson who was said to be aboard the boat along with Engineer Henning left the boat about 3 o'clock, had his hands burned in what is said to have been attempt to extinguish the fire. As far as could be determined it is believed the fire started in the exhaust pipe which is said to have caught on fire several times before.

Captain B. A. Borden who was in charge of the dredge, left Bay St. Louis last week for Tampa, Fla., and it is understood that the dredge was to be sent to Florida waters after the work on the Richards place was completed. The place where the dredge was working was known as the former Dr. Walker place and Mr. Richards, the present owner, is developing it.

The dredge boat came to the Bay-Waveland waters about a year ago and during that time has been working filling in sand behind the seawall. After the fill was finished here it went to Ocean Springs and did some work there for Jackson county, returning here some six or more weeks ago for the Richards work.

The dredge, which was driven by electricity, was said to have a large engine worth about $25,000 and a smaller auxiliary engine worth about $8,000. Other machinery on the boat would bring the equipment high. It is said that the boat was insured for $90,000.

W. M. Perry, head of the Coastal Construction Company's office in Gulfport, was in Memphis at the time of the fire and was notified of the loss by wire. He left Memphis Wednesday to return to the Coast.

NEW SECRETARY OF THE ARMY—The Mississippi Army ammunition plant, now under construction in Hancock County, was a primary topic of discussion when Congressman Trent Lott, R-Miss., met in his Washington office with John Marsh, the new Secretary of the Army. Lott said he and Marsh agreed that timely completion of the plant is a must because the plant's product, advanced 155 mm artillery ammunition, is needed by the U.S. Army.

Man, wildlife depend on oceans

"We Care About Oceans," a theme that stresses the dependence of both man and wildlife on the world's oceans for their existence, will be the slogan of National Wildlife Week for 1981, to be observed this year from March 15 through 21.

More than 15 million schoolchildren, teachers and conservationists are expected to take part in the 44th annual observance of the week, first proclaimed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1938 to rally public support for programs to enhance the nation's wildlife population.

The week is sponsored each year by the National Wildlife Federation, a nonprofit, nongovernment conservation organization that distributes hundreds of thousands of Wildlife Week posters and education kits to schools throughout the country. In the past week's theme, we dealt mostly with endangered species of wildlife and the protection of wildlife habitat.

"We decided to broaden the theme this year to cover a natural resource that we are all dependent upon, but most of us take for granted," said Dr. Fred Scroggin, of Dry Ridge, Ky., president of NWF. "The oceans not only cover 71 percent of the earth's surface, but they harbor 80 percent of all animal life, serve as a reservoir for 97 percent of the earth's water supply, provide us with half of our life-sustaining oxygen, and with millions of tons of food," he continued.

"Whether we live along a coast or in the landlocked Midwest, we are dependent on the living sea, and yet in many places people use it as through it were a bottomless garbage pit, dumping into it sewage, deadly chemicals, and even nuclear wastes. This year, we hope to educate millions of Americans to the fact that the ocean's ecology is a delicate one and that we must protect it."

Although many activities of man, including new techniques of deep sea mining, pose threats to the oceans, Wildlife Week will focus mainly on the problem of pollution, including ocean dumping, oil spills, and wastewater discharges from municipal sewage treatment plants — activities where ordinary citizens can observe and make their views known.

The 1981 Wildlife Week poster features a sea otter, which was photographed for the NWF by renowned wildlife photographer Stephen J. Krasemann. On the poster's reverse side is a chart explaining why the oceans are vital to both man and wildlife and illustrating the roles of kelp, plankton, crabs, mussels, sea urchins, rockfish, the octopus, sea otters, and killer whales in the oceans' "food web."

More than a million of these posters will be mailed to Wildlife Week participants. In addition, the NWF will distribute more than 600,000 copies of a second poster bearing color photographs of 16 different species of ocean-dwelling wildlife. Information on each animal in English and Spanish is on the poster's reverse.

NWF will also send out more than 400,000 Education Kits to teachers. The kits will include posters and activity booklets. "As the earth becomes more crowded, man will turn to the sea for food, minerals, and energy, as well as for transportation and recreation," said NWF's President Scroggin, a physician and lifelong conservationist. "The were very good and those who worked to make it a success are to be congratulated. We enjoyed it very much.

Gordon Stone has been helping Senior Citizens with their Income Tax every Friday afternoon in the RSVP office. Thanks for volunteering, Gordon, as this is a very much needed service.

Another Volunteer, Roland Galivan, has been hard at work preparing floats for the annual St. Patrick's Day Parade sponsored by the Waveland Civic Association. He has told us that this year's parade will be bigger and better than ever.

Some of our volunteers have been ill. We miss all of you when you are unable to volunteer and pray that you will soon be in good health again.

The RSVP office will close Mardi Gras Day, March 3, so that our employees can enjoy the parades and festivities of this celebration. We will be back at work again the following day as this is the last month of our fiscal year and we will be busy preparing for the new year beginning April 1st.

We like to plan ahead and are formulating plans for celebrating National Volunteer Week in April and Senior Citizen's Month in May. Brother Canisius Schell has been helpful in efforts to secure entertainment for this occasion.

We are still working on getting a group of semi-professional entertainers for this very special day. Will let all of you know later when our plans are complete.

CEMETERY RIGHTS

The Veterans Administration provides for the burial of eligible deceased service persons, discharged veterans and dependents in any open national cemetery.

Headstart registering for September

Bay-Waveland, Mt. Zion and Catahoula Head Start Centers will register children on Monday through Friday of the following weeks through April 1 from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and on April 2-3, from 8 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

All children meeting the following requirements are eligible:

1. 4 or 5 years of age (3 year olds were authorized). In addition, children who will be 6 after September 1, 1981 and before January 1, 1982 are also eligible;

2. with or without a handicapping condition;

3. family income below OMB poverty guidelines and/or welfare (children from families whose incomes are above these guidelines will be enrolled if space permits).

Please assist us in this important effort by doing the following:

Parents are urged to:

1. come to the center between February 23 and April 3 to re-register their child if he or she is not graduating and to register other children in the family ages 3 to 5.

A certified copy of the child's birth certificate, child's medical number, if eligible for this service, immunization record and proof of annual family income are requested for pre-registration. For more information, call 467-7641.

RSVP report

By THERESA JAMES

On Feb. 8-12, 1981 I attended the Southern Gerontological Conference held in Atlanta.

It was a very successful conference and addressed the future needs of the elderly, especially in the South.

I was also on the planning committee for the conference and enjoyed it very much.

So much work goes into these conferences that it is a pleasure when they turn out well. It is interesting to exchange ideas with others from all over our country.

At this conference, the Mississippi association of RSVP directors met and re-elected me for another year to serve as president.

I am happy to have received this honor for another year. It is something I enjoy very much.

Our volunteers have been busy in spite of recent inclement weather, but with the onset of spring-like weather, we expect an increase in activity.

We are very happy to announce that the Historical Society in Hancock County is now one of our stations. We have had volunteers working on this project already. We hope it proves to be beneficial to both the Historical Society and us.

We are planning a trip to Walt Disney World and Sea World. The dates are April 23-27. We have one bus full and are hoping that if we have enough requests, we will charter a second bus.

If anyone is interested in getting in on this bargain trip, call the office 487-9204. We will leave Thursday, April 23, travel to Kissimmee, Fla. and tour Walt Disney World Friday and Saturday.

We will leave there on Sunday, April 26, tour Sea World, travel to Tallahassee, stay overnight and return home Monday, April 27.

The prices are reasonable and the trip promises to be a lot of fun for all.

Commissioner Ronnie Artigues endorsed the water system improvements, noting it would be a 'good selling point' to offer prospective industries.

Webre warned water rates at Port Bienville would have to be increased and recommended a committee be formed to study the matter.

"I'd like to get into this to reanalyze what we're going to do about installing water meters," the director added.

In an interview after the meeting

Webre, reported the industrial park does not have a fire fighting unit, but he said the commission contributes funds to West Hancock, BaySide and Clermont Harbor Volunteer Fire Departments. Webre said those departments would offer fire fighters during a fire in addition to support by the National Space Technology Laboratories' Fire Department.

McDonald noted there has not been a pressing need for a Port Bienville fire department because most industries there operate outdoors.

EDITORIAL

Tornado Awareness Week, March 1-7

Tornado Awareness Week is being observed in Mississippi this week so we feel a few facts and figures on that devastating weather phenomenon are appropriate today.

Mississippi experienced moderate tornado activity in 1980. The 32 confirmed tornadoes were above the yearly average of 20. However, only two tornado deaths occurred, compared with an average of 17 per year since tornado death statistics were first compiled in 1916.

Both of the 1980 fatalities occurred in mobile homes which were struck by tornadoes. In addition, 54 people were injured by tornadoes in Mississippi in 1980.

Most of the 1980 tornadoes were small or short-lived, which probably accounts for the low death total. However, Mississippi retains its number 1 ranking in tornado deaths among the 50 states. . . 1,226 people have been killed by tornadoes in Mississippi since 1916.

The months of February, March, April and May are the most active tornado months in Mississippi. However, tornadoes can and do occur during every month of the year. Over half of all tornadoes in Mississippi form during the afternoon and early evening hours between 3 p.m. and 9 p.m., but they have occurred at all hours of the day or night.

More than half of the tornadoes occurring in the state move from southwest to northeast at an average speed of 30 miles an hour. Tornadoes may occasionally move as fast as 70 miles an hour, or they may almost stand still. Tornado wind speeds range from less than 100 miles an hour in some of the weaker storms to possibly over 300 miles an hour in the most severe tornadoes.

It has been rumored that rivers, bluffs, hills, ridges or valleys protect an area from tornadoes. Nothing could be further from the truth. Tornadoes have been observed to cross rivers and valleys and climb over mountains with little change in intensity.

Your safety depends on your being alert to the possibility of tornadoes forming near you. A careful lookout should be kept during any period of severe thunderstorm activity for the possible appearance of the typical funnel shape of a tornado.

If a tornado warning is issued in our area, seek shelter immediately. Don't count on being able to see it coming. Tornadoes in Mississippi are frequently obscured by heavy rain, low clouds, trees, hills or darkness.

If you wait until you hear it, then it will be too late to find shelter.

Tornado Safety Rules

We can do little to prevent a tornado from occurring, but by knowing the safety rules, we can keep the number of deaths and injuries to a minimum.

A tornado watch means that tornado development is possible. Keep an eye on the sky for threatening weather and stay tuned to radio and television and listen for weather bulletins.

A Tornado Warning means a tornado has been sighted or indicated by radar. Persons in the path of the storm should seek shelter immediately, preferably in a storm cellar, underground excavation, or steel framed or concrete reinforced building.

In homes...the basement offers the greatest safety. Seek shelter under sturdy furniture if possible. In homes without basements, take cover in the center part of the house on the lowest floor, in a small room such as a closet or bathroom, or under sturdy furniture. Stay away from windows.

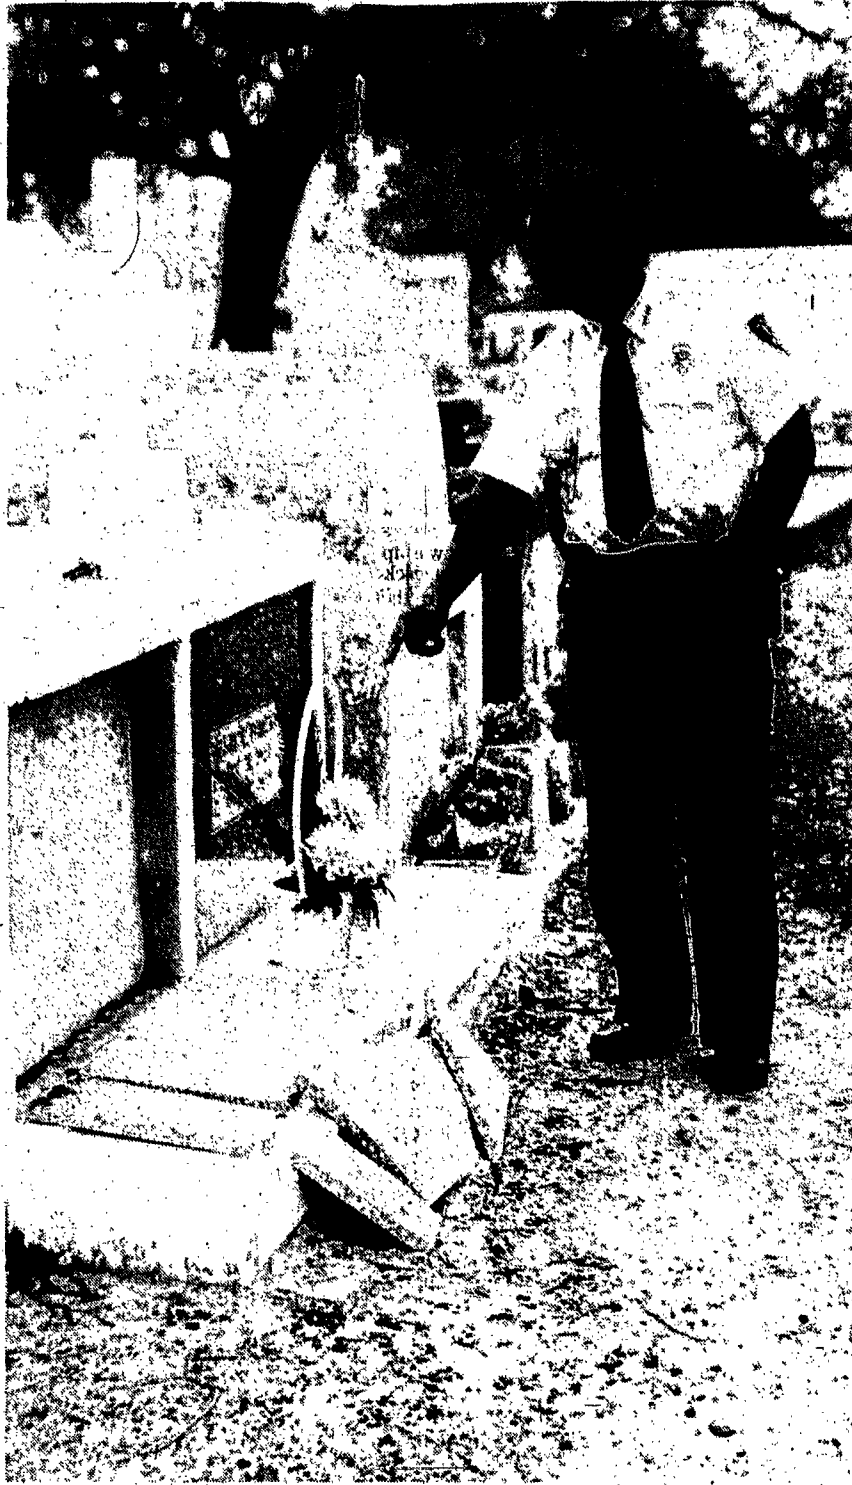

In schools, hospitals, and shopping centers...move to predesignated shelter areas. Interior hallways on lowest floors are best. If the building is not of reinforced construction, go to a nearby one that is or take cover outside on low protected ground. Stay out of auditoriums, gymnasiums, and other structures with wide span roofs.

In open country...move away from the tornado's path at right angles. If there is not time to escape, lie flat in the nearest ditch or ravine.

Mobile homes are particularly vulnerable to overturning during strong winds and should be evacuated when strong winds of tornadoes are forecast. Damage can be minimized by securing trailers with cables anchored in concrete footing. Trailer parks should have a community storm shelter, and a warden to monitor broadcasts throughout the severe storm emergency. If there is no shelter nearby, leave the trailer park and take cover on low protected ground.

Learn these tornado safety rules. It could be the difference between life and death...for anyone...anywhere.

CEMETERY DESECRATION—Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams points out some $500 in wanton destruction perpetrated recently by unknown vandals in the Cedar Rest Cemetery. The culprits unscrewed this marble facing slab from a tomb owned by Mrs. Allie Cospolich of Joe's Bayou, allowing the slab to fall and break into several pieces. Mrs. Cospolich is offering a $100 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible. Williams said liquor bottles were found strewn in the area of the Cospolich tomb and others damaged in Cedar Rest last week.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Bay man appalled with efforts to restrict teaching evolution

Feb. 27, 1981
Editor
Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir,

Evolution, once again a most controversial issue in our time, is being regarded as a threatening demon by creationists, people who contend that the Biblical Genesis story depicts the fashion in which the universe and all life began.

Why do they feel that the theory of evolution is so earth-shaking? They regard this theory as if somehow it would disprove God.

According to the theory of evolution, the universe was first started by a huge explosion of matter and then through billions of years planets evolved.

And on this planet in particular, the condition of life occurred and evolved slowly to present day form.

It is becoming increasingly clear that the reason why many people reject this idea is because they associate the theory with the relatively recent idea that "man came from an ape" and then quickly put the theory of evolution forever out of their minds.

They hear one statement and refuse to deal any further with it.

It is my opinion that God works through nature, and if he does work through nature, then wouldn't it be much more feasible that he would create life naturally, instead of putting on a magic show where he pulls the universe and all life out of a hat?

Many creationists have formed groups in hopes of banning the teaching of evolution in the public schools.

It is beyond me why they refuse to use their minds. Can't they see that if the human race is to learn and grow we have to explore new ideas, rather than cling to old ideas as if they are all we have?

I would suggest it is not the mere theory of evolution that they are afraid of, it is their own inner fears — fear of change, fear of eventually coming to grips with the reality that if man is to survive then he is going to have to use the most valuable gift that God has given him, his mind.

Sincerely,
Terry McMahon

NEWS FROM THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

Gov. William Winter has proclaimed March 1-7 as Seat Belt Week in Mississippi. The observance, sponsored by the Governor's Highway Safety Program, is designed to encourage seat belt usage by Mississippians in order to reduce the number of fatalities and injuries on state streets and highways.

Seat Belt Week will be highlighted by a "Try Before You Buy Day" at the Jackson Metro Center March 7 which will allow persons to try child restraints in their cars before purchasing them. The event, initiated by the Clinton Jayettes, will also feature simulated collisions and an appearance by Gov. Winter at 2 p.m.

"Through the observance of Seat Belt Week, we hope to make Mississippians aware of the needs for safety belts and to clear up any misconceptions about their usage," Winter said.

"More than 90 percent of all motorists believe that safety belts are a good idea in one or more situations. In practice, however, only about 41 percent of drivers can be observed wearing their belts," he said. "Of children who ride in motor vehicles, only 10 percent are restrained in any way."

National figures indicate that more than 50,000 Americans are killed and approximately two million others injured each year in automobile accidents. Traffic accidents are also the major cause of epilepsy; and the number one killer of Americans of under 34 years of age. In addition, more than half of the nation's paraplegics were victims of traffic accidents.

Nearly eight out of 10 crashes occur at speeds less than 40 miles per hour. People not wearing safety belts have been fatally injured in crashes at speeds as low as 12 miles per hour, about the speed a person drives through a parking lot.

Many people believe they are safe when driving to the store, the school, or a friend's house. However, three out of four crashes happen within 25 miles of home.

Bits 'n pieces

Happy Mardi Gras to everyone.

Tuesday is Mardi Gras Day and a new parade will roll in Bay St. Louis.

The new parade, "Real People" will start at 9 a.m. Tuesday on Necaise Avenue.

At 2 p.m. Tuesday the Krewe of Triton with J.D. "Big John" Rutherford as king will travel from Our Shopping Center, Waveland down US-90 to Bay St. Louis.

We hope everyone will come out and view the parades.

Also don't forget Pass Christian's annual parade this afternoon at 2 p.m.

We are happy to hear that Hancock County Board of Supervisor President A.A. (Dolph) Kellar, James Travirca, vice-president, Sheriff Ronald Peterson, and Bay St. Louis Councilman Fred Wagner spent the week in Boulder, Colo. looking into the possibility of a new jail.

If ever there were a need in Hancock County, a new jail should top the list.

The old facility is just out of date and should be replaced.

Congratulations are in order for Jeff Kergosien, St. Stanislaus student on setting a state record in the 123½ pound class for squats.

Kergosien successfully lifted 352½ pounds at the Mississippi Invitational Powerlifting Championships last weekend at Brother Peter Memorial Gym.

We know Brother Bennett must still be smiling.

Things happen today that make us wonder if we are living in a civilized world.

Take for instance some mischief we noted a couple days ago in Cedar Rest Cemetery. Someone with a very low mentality unbolted a headstone from the tomb of an elderly resident of

HERITAGE NEWS FORUM

AMERICA UNGUARDED

By Edwin Feulner

The recent euphoria over the return of the hostages from Tehran and the ringing declarations of war against terrorism from the administration have precariously shifted public attention away from the grim reality that the U.S. is unguarded and unprotected against attack from international gangsters and outlaws.

The nation is as impotent to counter a terrorist threat today as it was when the hostages were taken 16 months ago, when the Hanafi Muslims seized buildings here in Washington four years ago, or when our diplomats were gunned down abroad.

Supposedly the mechanisms to fight terrorism both at home and abroad are to be found in a special section of the Department of State and in the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). In the case of the former, efforts to date have been marked by low priority status, a small budget, and understaffing. As for FEMA, the nation's fight against terrorism is suffering from neglect and indifference.

The Reagan Administration has the unique opportunity to immediately take effective action against terrorism, by emphasizing the role of FEMA.

The Agency itself is only two years old, having been established as a merger of the duties formerly assigned the Office of Emergency Preparedness in the White House, the civil defense program in the Department of Defense; the national fire administration in the Department of Commerce; and the federal insurance administration in the old Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

However, FEMA's existence as an independent agency has hampered its efforts to deal with emergency situations. In lacking a natural constituency, except in times of crisis, FEMA — the custodian of the Emergency Broadcast System, the national stockpile of strategic material, and continuity of government in the event of an attack on Washington — is treated as an orphan of the federal government.

Emergencies are like a time-bomb, always ticking and ready to go off. Even now, the four states in the Delaware River basin are facing a disastrous drought, the spring floods are approaching, California is long overdue for a serious earthquake, and the U.S. seems bent on baiting terrorists to act.

And all of this can involve thousands of people with an agency that few know exists, and even worse, enjoys little support in Congress.

The history of emergency management in the United States is one of response, not anticipation. A recognized expert in emergency medicine has said, "They always wait until they smell burning flesh and by then, it is often too late."

It is not a popular practice to play Paul Revere. But the handwriting on the wall is so apparent, that only gross irresponsibility would allow the status quo to continue with regard to FEMA.

The Agency is one of the few in the entire government to which the public should be able to look with hopeful anticipation when contending with Mt. St. Helens, Love Canal, paralyzing blizzards, fires, storms, or political terrorism.

A new direction for FEMA can be set by the Reagan Administration. The Agency should be upgraded from its independent status to once again become an integral part of the White House.

The U.S. is operating on "borrowed time" with respect to another disaster or major crisis. Emergencies cannot be scheduled at the most convenient time.

Despite the President's and the Secretary of State's pronouncements about the willingness of the U.S. to combat terrorism, we are no better equipped to deal with that problem than we are with many other potential crises. The nation is not ready and FEMA is not ready.

(Feulner is president of The Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based public policy research institute.)

OUR ECONOMIC FUTURE

Efforts to assure the continuation of the American enterprise system in Mississippi have moved forward this school year through the American Enterprise Center's economic education workshops for public and private school teachers.

The AEC, the education arm of the Mississippi Economic Council, by the end of this school year will have held economic education workshops for 1,020 teachers representing some 202 schools. The AEC conservatively estimates that these teachers will have passed on an appreciation and understanding of our free enterprise system to some 75,000 Mississippi students.

Senator Cochran reports

Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) said federal agricultural officials have acted to help speed up processing of farm disaster loan applications in Mississippi.

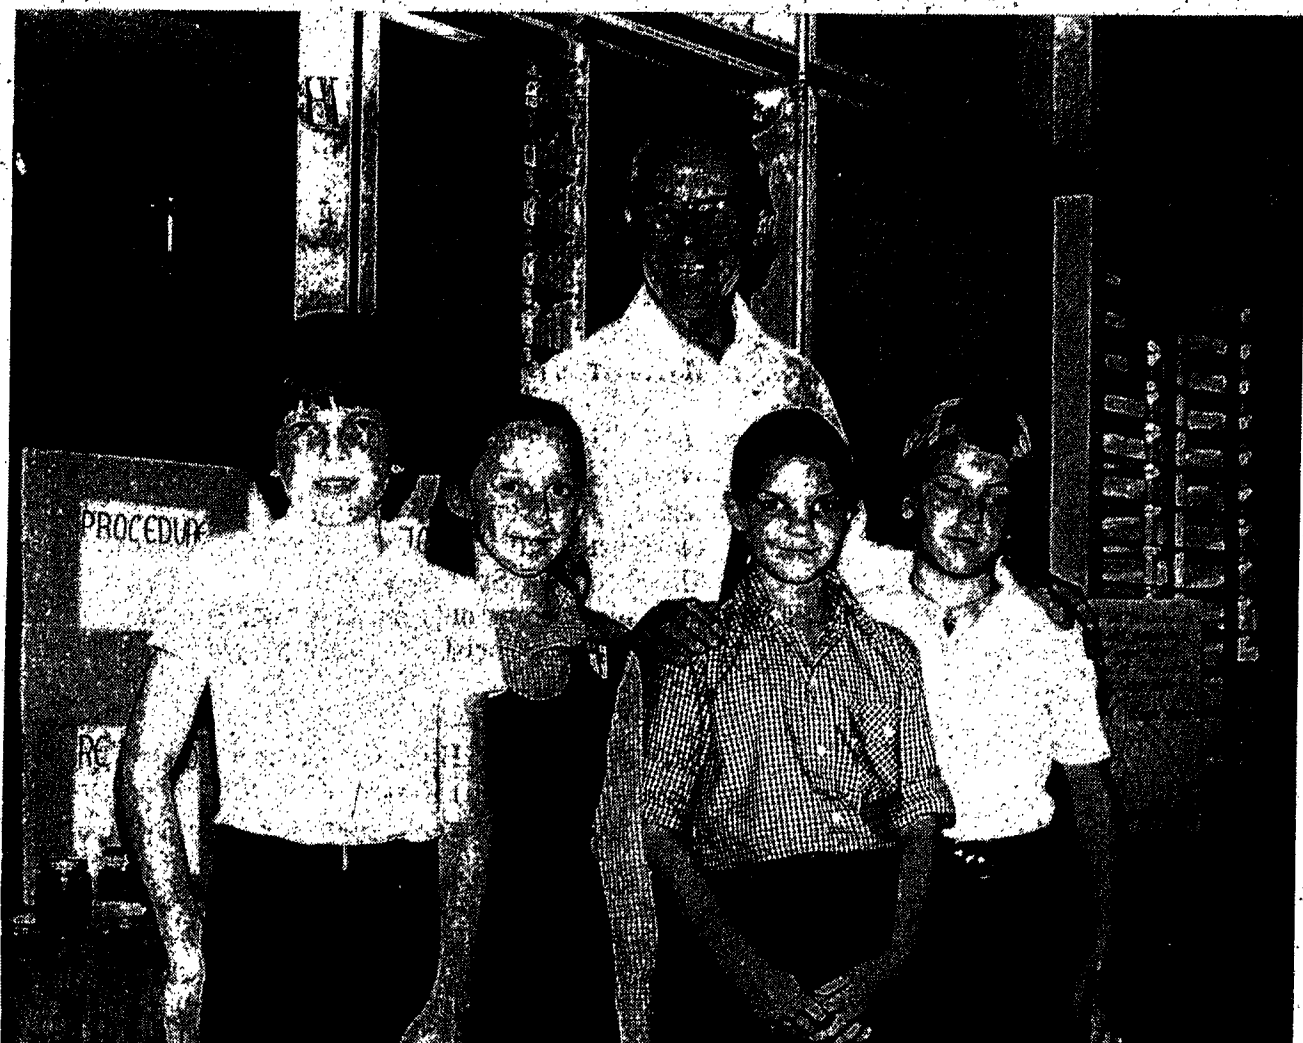

The Senator said USDA notified him it has authorized the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service to assist the Farmers Home Administration in processing emergency loans.

He said USDA in Washington has informed him that effective immediately Farmers Home is authorized to work longer hours processing the loans, and SCS is to offer personal assistance wherever possible in the state to help out local Farmers Home offices.

MARDI GRAS BALL

The Nutrition Mardi Gras Ball was a big success Monday afternoon. The court was selected by secret drawing of those who had registered.

The king was Buford Taylor, the queen Mary Thompson. Serving their majesties in the court were Rita Marti and Mary Smith as maids and Henry Hayes and Frank Bussey as dukes.

David Riemann and Ms. Pat Harvill of Riemann Funeral Homes presented the court with beautiful corsages and boutonnieres. The costumes were judged by Charlene Bagg and Norma Slade of Gulfport. Arts and Crafts Program. Assisting them in this job were Riemann and Harvill. The grand finale was the annual favorite—Paul Lewis singing, When the Saints Go Marching In, and the saints (wheelchairs and all) did march!!! The costumes were so good everyone won something. The delicious cakes were furnished by Peoples Federal Savings & Loan, and Security Savings and Loan. The American Legion Post No. 139 provided the spacious building, and we do thank them, as always. Our prizes were donated by The Eatery, Sister's Three, Danny's Fried Chicken, and both the Waveland and Bay St. Louis American Legion Posts. Thanks from all of us.

Willie and Mary Dunklin enjoy new home

By BRENT MACEY

"I'm living like a king now," Willie Dunklin said recently about his new home at 504 State Street which he and his wife moved into in January.

Dunklin, an amputee, and his wife Mary who is also disabled, were living last September in what Dunklin described as a 'health hazard.'

According to Dunklin, the old roof was leaking, window panes were missing and the floor had sunk from age.

Other agencies considered the house a health hazard too.

"The Federal Housing Authority said they could not give any money for renovation," Dunklin said, "They said it was too far gone."

Funding through Farmers Home Loan and Gulf Coast Community Action was also not available to the couple.

As a result, the Concerned Citizens of Hancock County, spearheaded by Geraldine Lang, took it upon themselves to make the community aware of the couple's plight.

"The response was wonderful," Lang said about the project which she has labeled 'You are your brother's keeper.' "It shows that people really do care."

She said.

"Donations came in from all parts of the community," she said.

Lang said different businesses contributed supplies for the construction or gave the couple a discount on materials.

An account was set up in an area bank for the couple and many people also gave money, she said.

Other than materials, people donated furniture including tables, chairs, couches and a gas heater.

The old house was burned down in September by the fire department in a controlled burn, Lang said.

She said some of the two-by-fours and parts of the tin roof were the only things salvaged from the old house.

Construction of the new house was 'mostly by volunteer labor,' she added.

Lang gave special thanks to U.S. Navy Seabees from Gulfport their work on the project, along with the individual help donated 'from start to finish' by Jimmy Lang, her husband; Herbert Lanau, Jack Smith, and Willie Grace, all Bay St. Louis residents.

Lang also thanked Paul Lewis for his 'overall moral support' and Earl Lizana for his 'expertise' in the construction.

"Everything considered, I would estimate the whole project cost $4,300," Lang said.

She said there is still an outstanding debt of approximately $600 and the couple still needs a hot water heater.

"Still, we are very appreciative of what the community has done," She said.

Dunklin agreed, adding, "It's grand."

Imagination required for amusement in pre-electronic days

By GRADY S. THIGPEN
Judge Roach, an old man who lived in Picaune when I first came here in 1917, was for a time Justice of the Peace at Gainesville.

He was a mild mannered man who got along well with most everybody, but a doctor

ORTHODONTIST?

An orthodontist is a dentist with at least two years of additional training after having earned a dental degree. This advanced education includes such diverse studies as physics, embryology, genetics, human growth and development, cephalometrics, biophysics and mechanical engineering. Only dentists with this advanced training can announce that they are orthodontists.

who lived in Gainesville did not like something that the judge had done and stated publicly that he was going to give the judge a whipping.

When the judge walked downtown the doctor started toward him.

The judge turned and ran, onlookers roared with laughter but the judge had a purpose.

He ran back a little, grabbed up a heavy stick and turning back to the pursuing doctor, struck him across the head and knocked him out. After that the judge was fully respected and no one else bothered him.

Judge Roach must have been about 85-year-old when I knew him in Picaune.

He had a son named Jim who was engineer on the Weston train that came into Picaune daily. Everyone knew when Jim Roach was coming into town. He would bear down on the locomotive whistle with long lonesome toots all the way in. The children would hear the train coming and say "There's Jim Roach."

There was, of course, no picture show, no radio, no TV, talking machines, no clubs, no basketball, golf or sports as we know here now, no cars or transportation except horses, no newspaper except for a short time.

People had to devise their own diversions. The exception was the patent medicine shows that came around occasionally.

The man who ran these shows were smart — they lived off their wits. To attract a crowd the barker usually carried along a negro banjo player and a negro buck dancer.

The playing and dancing attracted the crowd and then the barker put on his spiel to sell the medicine which he claimed would cure anything and everything.

When he had the crowd in the right frame of mind a confederate would come up and buy one or more bottles and that usually started an avalanche of business of $1 a bottle as he urged them to buy before his limited quantity of this wonder medicine was all gone.

They never tarried long in one place. They were afraid the purchasers would find out the medicine was no good and cause them trouble.

I well remember these supersalesmen coming around to the little country community in Jasper County where I was born and reared. Since I have been in Picaune — from about 1918 — one of these fast talking gents came along and sold an old gentlemen some of his wares.

I was in the hotel lobby when the old man who had been gyped found the medicine man sitting there with about a dozen other people.

I have never heard one man talk to another as hard as the old man did to the faker, who refunded his money and left town in a hurry.

I have had many reports on horse racing in Gainesville. They came from 25 to 30 miles away to race their horses on the well-kept half mile track.

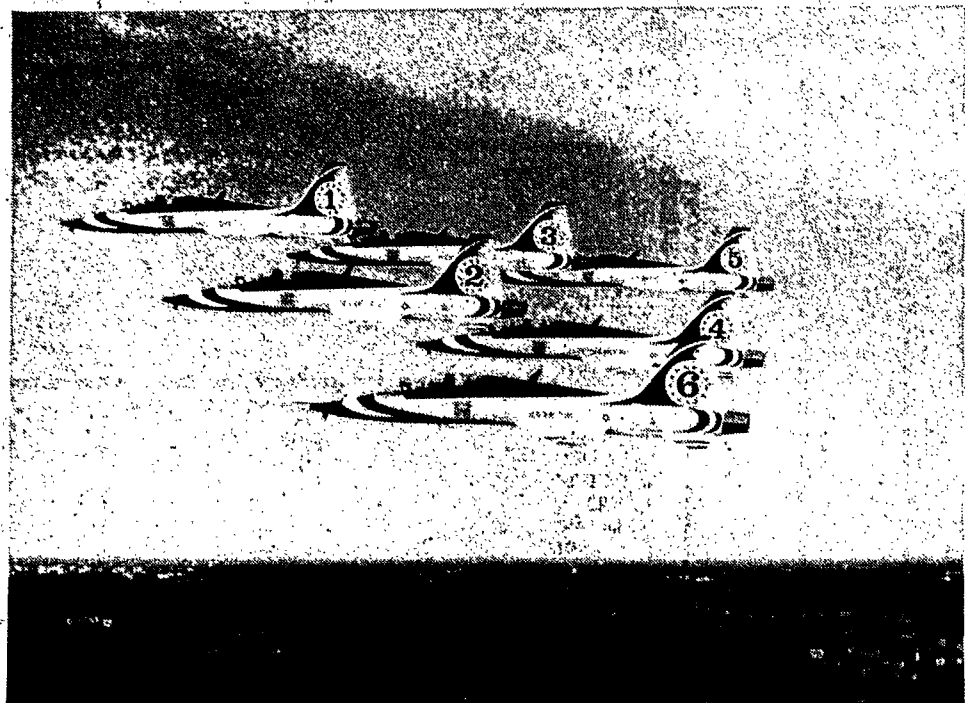

In season there seems to have been regular racing days. Mr. Van Stockstill said racing was a regular sport when he lived there and a neighbor had a race horse named "Molly Darling."

Mr. Manuel Penton told me of seeing horse races there and said plenty of money was bet on these races.

As I said, people had to arrange for their own amusement back then. Hunting and fishing were great sport back then as well as sources of food.

Almost every man had his gun, rifle and hunting dogs. Each prided himself on his hunting skill. A good kill, or a good catch was something to show off and boast of.

A man had to be a good shot back then as one shot at his prey was all he got for it took THUNDERBIRDS AT KEESLER — The U. S. Air Force "Thunderbirds" aerial demonstration team is coming to Keesler for a performance at the base's 1981 Open House March 29. While the Thunderbird performance will begin at 3 p.m., the gates to Keesler will open to the public at 11:30 a.m. Numerous displays of aircraft and equipment used by the Air Force and other branches of the military will be on display throughout the day on Keesler's flightline. Among the many attractions of the day will be a demonstration by military working dogs, a parachute jump by members of the 1st Special Operations Wing from Hurlburt Field, Fla. and performances by the 502nd Air Force Band, the Blue Knights Drum and Bugle Corps and Keesler drill teams. Numerous booths will be located in the display area selling a variety of food and beverages. The public is invited to the free show.

The Spinal Column

By WILLIAM L. POWELL, D.C.
Headache Cause May Be Pinched Nerve

According to a report issued by the N. Y. Journal of Medicine, the cause of headache in over 90% of 2,000 patients studied was a mechanical irritation of the nerves that exit between the bones of the neck. The report states that "Direct injury to the neck may be caused by a blow or a fall" that could easily irritate delicate spinal nerves.

Nuptial Mass unites Brown, Cuevas in Delisle

Myra Kay Cuevas became the bride of Thomas Edward Brown in a 2 p.m. ceremony on February 7 at St. William's Catholic Church in Delisle.

The bride is the daughter of Welton and Jacqueline Cuevas of Pass Christian. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Koenenn of Kiln and Mr. and Mrs. Levi Cuevas of Gulfport.

The groom is the grandson of Mr. Louis Lassabe of Pass Christian.

Rev. John McSpittle celebrated a Nuptial Mass uniting the couple in marriage.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white velvet, designed and fashioned by her mother, featuring a standing collar embellished with seed pearls, sheer yoke applique with lace and pearls, full sheer sleeves, and chapel length train. Her veil of bridal illusion was held in place by a white velvet bow headpiece. She carried a bouquet of white daisies, carnations and red roses.

Donnette Cuevas attended her sister as maid of honor.

Denise Necaise of Pass Christian, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Donna Kay Koenenn of Kiln, cousin of the bride; Darla Jean Cuevas, Regina Cuevas, Shamla Beech, Jeanne Donlin and Terri Donlin, all cousins of the bride, Pass Christian; Liz Garriga and Belinda Paige of Pass Christian.

Flower girls were Misses Windy Ann Ladner of Pass Christian, godchild of the bride; and Tiffney Lunsford of Pass Christian, niece of the bride. Jamie Moran of Lizana, godchild of the bride, was ring bearer.

Miss Leslie Burge of Gulfport, cousin of the groom, was miniature bride. Curt Ladner, cousin of the bride, was miniature groom.

Lex Harshbarger of Pass Christian served the groom as best man.

Groomsmen were Kelton H. Cuevas of Pass Christian, brother of the bride; Kendall Cuevas of Pass Christian, cousin of the bride; Tommy Koenenn and Yancey Koenenn of Kiln, cousins of the bride; Barry Ladner of Bay St. Louis, cousin of the bride; Lauri Necaise of Pass Christian, cousin of the bride; Patrick Necaise and Rickey Partridge of Pass Christian; and Mike Bailey of Gulfport. Ushers were C.J. Cuevas and Bobby Saucier.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Kiln Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall.

On return from a honeymoon trip to Pensacola, Fla., the couple will reside in Pass Christian.

Prior to the wedding, a rehearsal dinner for the wedding party was hosted by the groom's aunts, Martha Stiglet, Teresa Burge and Edna Trochesset at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stiglet of Pass Christian.

Woods, Bosworth exchange vows

MR. AND MRS. JESSIE W. WOODS JR.

First Southern Baptist Church in Pearlington formed the setting for the February 14 exchange of vows between Faith Christine Bosworth and Jessie W. Woods Jr.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Bosworth of Pearlington. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jessie W. Woods Sr. also of Pearlington.

Rev. Steve Jackson officiated at the ceremony.

Beverly Bosworth attended the bride as maid of honor. Carol Doyle was bridesmaid. Jerry Thigpen served the groom as best man. Clyde Lesieur was groomsmen.

Miss April Dawsey was flower girl and Chris Varnado was ring bearer.

On return from a honeymoon trip to Florida, the couple will reside in Pearlington.

Pass VFW auxiliary entertains patients

The Ladies Auxiliary of Cecil R. Ruddock Post 5931, Pass Christian, sponsored a "Drive to Survive" program February 12 at the post home.

Tom Daniels from the Gulfport Highway Safety Patrol concocted a program featuring a film on safe driving. The hazards of alcohol and driving were discussed, followed by a question and answer forum.

Among guests were Mr. and Mrs. Diamond Blakeney of Long Beach. Mrs. Blakeney is the state president of the VFW.

A covered dish supper was served followed by the ladies auxiliary regular monthly meeting.

On February 13, the auxiliary hosted a Valentine and birthday party at Miramar nursing home. Entertainment was provided by Mr. Dick Austin and his "Seniors Too" band from RSVP Association.

Members attending from the auxiliary were Mrs. Mary Fedele, auxiliary president; Mrs. Norma Bonney, hospital chairman; Mrs. Ernestine Bradley, Mrs. Agnes Harshbarger, Mrs. Joyce Phillips, Mrs. Katherine Morris, Mrs. Bernie Nippo, and Mrs. Evelyn Lizana.

Cake with valentine motifs was served along with punch. The Dixie White House Nursing Home was the setting for an auxiliary-hosted party February 18.

Ms. Gi Gi Hines, entertainer at "The Landing Restaurant" of Gulfport, sang requests and played guitar.

Valentine cup cakes and pink punch was served. Candy Party Cups were distributed to the patients by auxiliary members Mary Fedele, Norma Bonney, Georgia Bridges, Lula Vella, Agnes Harshbarger, Ernestine Bradley, Bernice Nippo, Evelyn Lizana, Joyce Phillips and Suzanne Bonner.

Ms. Gi Gi Hines, entertainer at "The Landing Restaurant" of Gulfport, sang requests and played guitar.

World Prayer Day scheduled Friday

The seventh annual community-wide World Day of Prayer will be conducted at 10 a.m., Friday at the Main Street United Methodist Church, corner Main and Second Streets, Bay Saint Louis.

Representatives from many churches in the area will be present and will participate in the program.

The World Day of Prayer is an international observance on the first Friday in March each year. The service, open to all, is interdenominational and ecumenical in nature. We hope you will come and add your prayers to those of people all over the world.

This event was hosted by the Main Street United Methodist in 1975 and 1976; the Lutheran Church of the Pines, Waveland, in 1977; Christ Episcopal Church, Bay Saint Louis, in 1978; First Missionary Baptist Church, Bay Saint Louis in 1979; and the First Presbyterian Church in 1980.

"Please plan to attend this inspirational service conducted on the day set aside for prayer around the world," said Mrs. David McDonald, of United Methodist women.

Mennonite Choir sets Gulfport appearance

A tour ensemble from Eastern Mennonite Seminary will give a sacred music concert 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Gulfhaven Mennonite Church, Gulfhaven and Mennonite Rd., Gulfport.

The two choral groups, with 11 men's and 15 women's voices, will sing classical compositions, spirituals, hymn arrangements and contemporary and Messianic folk songs. Roy D. Roth, associate professor of church music at EMS, will direct the choirs on their tour of six southeast states during the seminary's spring break.

The choirs will combine on some numbers, and the program will include solos, quartets, and dramatic readings. The public is invited.

Eastern Mennonite Seminary, on the campus of Eastern Mennonite College, offers a three-year program leading to the master or bachelor of divinity degree, a two-year master of arts in religion degree and a one-year "certificate in biblical studies."

Present enrollment is 78 and Dr. George R. Brunk III is dean.

Need for will emphasized by bishop

The Most Reverend Joseph L. Howze, bishop of Biloxi, has designated Sunday, as "Make a Will" Sunday throughout the Biloxi Diocese.

In a pastoral letter to all parishes, Bishop Howze emphasizes the responsibility and obligation of heads of households to provide for their loved ones after their death by making a will.

Since a large percentage of adults in the United States die without making a will, this oversight results in a probate court making distribution of their worldly goods often contrary to their wishes and desires.

"The making of a will enables a person to channel his or her material goods to those whom he or she loves and cherishes," Bishop Howze continued.

"It enables one to serve as a good parent, benefactor or friend. It provides the opportunity for the continued support of dependents."

Bishop Howze also suggested "that Catholics make their wills in accordance with their Christian faith. A source of great blessing, now and hereafter, is to provide for the continued support of the mission of Christ."

A Catholic Foundation of the Diocese of Biloxi pamphlet titled "Do I Need a Will?" will be available in all churches at the Vigil and Sunday Masses.

There's an Answer!

Bottled-up anger

Q. I was reared under the teaching that a Christian does not have anger. Hence I am now suffering a severe depression. Please tell me, how does a Christian handle anger? How does he effect a spiritual catharsis to rid himself of repressed anger held over a period of years?

A. A Christian is a human being and as such must deal with the feeling of anger. But Christian commitment should result in appropriate emotional expression and control.

One way to handle anger is by delay. Hold off your volatility until it cools. Usually that can be accomplished by a few hours of delayed reaction. Talking with a trusted pastor or counselor can be an effective catharsis for long-held anger.

We have a booklet that has helped others with problems such as yours. It is entitled "How To Have A Good Day Every Day" and a copy of it is on its way to you. Anyone wishing a free copy may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Wondering why

Q. Our daughter was killed by her husband - a death which was supposed to have been an accident. His conduct at the hospital with another woman was unbelievable, and he openly came out with his girlfriend as soon as our daughter was buried.

We have two grandchildren who are left with a daddy who is not the right influence.

We had to take him to court to get the right to visit them. I have questioned God which I know I'm not supposed to do. I try not to, but I still wonder why I hesitate to talk to my pastor because I feel so weak spiritually, not being able to cope with this.

A. Of course God is not to blame, but it is only human to wonder why such a tragedy should happen. You need emotional support, and you should not hesitate to talk with your pastor.

He understands the shock this has been to you and can be most helpful. Be certain of your facts in suspecting your former son-in-law of murder. Try to deal with the problem calmly and spiritually, and even this tragedy can be handled.

Never loved him

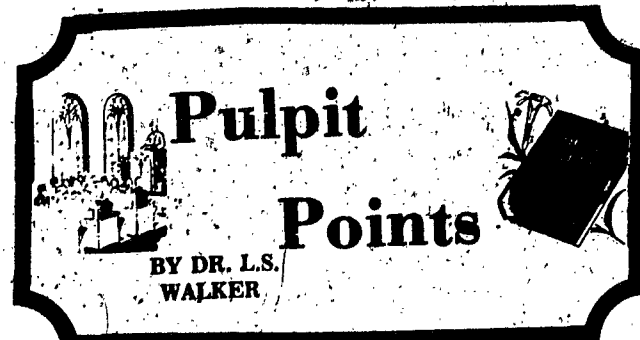

Q. I got married because I was very lonely living away from home. My husband is in the military and while he has been overseas I've been seeing a man whose marriage has all but broken up. We love each other and want to leave our present spouses for each other.

I know it's a bad thing to divorce your spouse for someone else, but I never loved my husband. I wanted security, and we never had a very happy home. So do I stay with my husband for the sake of my 5 year old child and to keep from hurting my husband? Or do I marry the man I love and be happy?

A. Yes, you should of course, stay with your husband. You married him in good faith, whether from loneliness or whatever. Just because you now think you love someone else does not in any degree release you from your solemn and honorable marriage vows.

It is not right to deprive your child of its natural father and abandon your husband for a man who couldn't get along with his wife and probably would fall in a similar relationship with you.

Every true New Testament Church exists because of a divine purpose. It deserves our attention as it speaks to us of that purpose.

I am your church! It says. I am here because you placed me here.

I am beautifully situated in your midst - in the center of your community, and I hope, in the center of your life. I will be a cherished landmark to thousands who will come to my doors in the coming years.

You built me because you know that your life would be incomplete - that it would not be full without me.

I am your church! But I am not here simply to adorn; I am here to serve.

Your children and growing youth come to me to be taught the ways of honesty, industry, morality, and Christianity.

Your brides and grooms come to my altar that their wedlock may be hallowed and sweetened by divine blessing. I am your church! I comfort your sick and sorrowing; I bury your dead, and offer rest and solace to the weary...

Pardon and peace are my boon to the sin-burdened soul, and my message of mercy brings new life.

Your aged I give courage and quiet, and cause their children to call them blessed.

I am your church! My doors spring open to all - rich, poor, bond and free.

My pulpit rings out a message of good will to men, of peace and pardon and a Saviour's love to all.

I teach you the way of life, and guide you on to the road of Heaven.

I am your church! I am worthy of your prayerful support.

"These things I write unto thee...that thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thyself in the house of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth." (1 Tim. 3:14-15).

DRUG QUIZ

by Curt Scarborough, Ph.D.

Question - Tranquilizers can do great good in helping persons get through crisis situations or in helping with problems of mental illness. Millions of Americans, however, are taking them habitually just to deal with the anxiety of living. How many tranquilizer pills are prescribed each year in this country?

- 6 million
- 50 million
- 500 million
- 5 billion

Answer - Dr. Jere Goyan, Food and Drug Commissioner, noted that 5 billion tranquilizer pills are prescribed each year. That's an average of 2 pills per month for every man, woman, and child living in the U.S.

"I hope physicians... become more discriminating in prescribing tranquilizers to relieve the symptoms of anxiety," he said. "I hope, too, that patients will not pressure their physicians for drugs that are not clearly needed." He also cautioned tranquilizer users about taking alcohol with drugs that affect the central nervous system.

Correct answer - d.

For further information about alcohol and drug abuse write Christian Action Commission, P.O. Box 530, Jackson, MS 39205.

COMIC OPERA

Gaetano Donizetti's comic opera, 'L'Elisir d'Amore' (The Elixir of Love), will be televised live from the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House on Monday, March 2. It can be seen at 8 p.m. on the Mississippi ETV Network. Luciano Pavarotti and Judith Blegen are the principals as the lovesick Nemorino and the impetuous Adina. The opera will be telecast with English subtitles. Nicola Rescigno conducts the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra.

PUBLIC NOTICE

INVITATION TO BID

To all persons interested in the following described lands in Hancock County Mississippi, to-wit:

Section 16, Township 7 South, Range 16 West, Hancock County, Mississippi.

You are hereby notified that sealed proposals to lease the above described property for hunting and fishing rights and activities in relation thereto for a period of five years, may be filed with the Superintendent of Schools of the Picaune Municipal Separate School District in Picaune, Mississippi, on or before 7:00 o'clock p.m., on the 17th day of March, 1981, and you are invited to submit sealed bids specifying in your bid the annual rental which you propose to pay for said hunting and fishing rights. The sealed bids submitted will be opened at 7:00 o'clock p.m., or as soon thereafter as conveniently possible on the 17th day of March, 1981, at a regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Picaune Municipal Separate School District. The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids; but if any bid is accepted, the Board will award a lease to the highest and best bidder in the manner provided by law. This, the 24th day of February, A.D., 1981.
